

LOCKED OUT -- of his own farm, Robert Mave, standing along the sign announcing that 104th Av. is closed to traffic because of the building of I-80 north and east of Mokena, and his brother Edward own 270 acres that will be split by the new transcontinental highway. They will have approximately 180 acres south of I-80 and the remaining acreage north of the highway. To get from the north to the south part of the farm will cause the Maves to make a detour of approximately three miles one way, four and a half miles another. Attempts to get the state to put a bridge over 104th Av. have failed. The Maves have not yet settled with the state for the I-80 right-of-way thru their property but the state has condemned it. Condemn now and pay later is the way such business is done today.

Will Vote Saturday On Junior College Dist.

Electors of the Lincoln-Way High School District will join those of 11 other high school district in Will, Kendall and Grundy counties this Saturday in voting on the proposal to establish a Class I Junior College District.

There will be 83 polling places and the polls will open at 6 a.m. and close at 6 p.m.

To be approved the proposal must carry in the unincorporated areas as well as the incorporated areas and it must also carry in Joliet Township District No. 204.

The proposal provides for a total tax rate of 9 1/2-cents per $100 equalized assessed valuation.

The reason for calling such an election, it was pointed out by the committee which has been studying the proposal for the past year, is that the state legislature, in compliance with the recommendations and urging of the State Board of Higher Education, passed a law which says that the people must provide junior college education for those who have graduated from high school.

The State demands Class I Junior College Districts established thruout Illinois. Class I Junior Colleges get a state grant of $11.50 per semester hour for each student and the state will also pay 75 per cent of the cost of acquiring a site and building a college.

If a high school district is not in a Class I JC District it has to pay a third of the tuition -- all of it some claim -- of those who enroll in one from its district.

Unless the legislature or the courts decide differently the cost of such tuition would come out of the educational fund which is used to operate a high school.

This could mean, it was pointed out, that a high school district would have to go to the voters and ask for an increase in the educational rate of probably 21 cents to pay the junior college tuition. If that weren't enough they would have to ask more.

There have been quite a number of opponents to the establishment of the proposed Junior College District in the area but workers who have been canvassing it report that some of them have changed their minds after looking at it strictly on a dollar and cents proposition.

The proposed district has an assessed valuation of $837-million and according to the finance division of the general committee the 9 1/2-cent rate should hold for several years and a bond issue to provide the district's share of the building cost would be low. They claim that a $10-million bond issue would only necessitate a 2-cent levy and no one expects that a $40-million college would be built, if for no other reason than the State wouldn't -- or couldn't -- spend $30-million on one Junior College District with a number of others being formed who would demand similar treatment. The $10-million figure was given to show what a low rate would be necessary to retire such a bond issue, it was explained.

There are now approximately 120 students attending junior college from the Lincoln-Way district and it is expected the number will increase as the enrollment increases and the area grows. To pay for their tuition out of the Lincoln-Way District educational fund would be disastrous, it was pointed out.

Whether one likes the idea or not the State has decreed that the public must support the junior college program so the only thing left to do is make the best of it, it was pointed out.

The proposed junior college will have a vocational as well as a liberal arts program, it was explained. The list of polling places in the Lincoln-Way District will be found on another page in this issue.

Brings Suit Against Village Of N. Lenox -- And A Policeman

A suit charging he had been subjected to false arrest and imprisonment and asking $30,000 damages has been filed in the Will County Circuit Court by Frank M. Jurcak Jr., against Jerry K. Krasovic, Jr., of the New Lenox police department and the Village of New Lenox.

Jurcak says he was arrested Jan. 22, 1966, according to William Penn, village attorney for New Lenox, in a false arrest suit the complaint should have been filed within six months.

The plaintiff is asking $20,000 from Krasovic and $10,000 from the village.

According to Penn, Krasovic is alleged to have found Jurcak's car parked with two of the wheels on U. S. 30 and went into a restaurant where Jurcak was having coffee to ask him to move the car so it was not parked on the highway.

An altercation followed and finally sheriff's deputies were summoned and Jurcak was taken to, and placed in the county jail. Krasovic went to sign a complaint against Jurcak charging him with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. Penn told the village board and when Krasovic arrived at the state's attorney's office he was informed that that office didn't care whether the case was prosecuted or not and it was strictly up to Krasovic as to whether he wanted to proceed against Jurcak.

Penn said that Krasovic felt sorry for Jurcak and decided not to prosecute.

Jurcak is a member of the family that formerly operated the Valley View Farm restaurant on U. S. 30. He is represented by a Chicago law firm.

Will Co. Farm Bureau Elects Six Directors

Earl Meisinger, Lemont and James Tilsey, Mokena have been elected to the board of directors of Will County Farm Bureau. Meisinger replaced Lloyd Eichelberger who has given up farming and Tilsey replaced Edward Berens who had served the maximum six years as a Farm Bureau director.

Four other directors re-elected were Donald Baltz, Joliet; Russell Lauffer, Mokena; Ralph Knater, Frankfort, and Martin Koelling, Crete.

At the meeting which mixed business with entertainment and a family style roast beef dinner, president Robert Eaton, Elwood reported for the board of directors on a successful year for the county farm organization. Other reports were given by Treasurer Ronald Hack, Peotone; Eugene Malone, executive secretary, and Charles R. Hull, Insurance Agency manager.

On the lighter side 350 farm people enjoyed folk songs by Win Stracke, noted folk singer and took a slide illustrated tour to scenic spots and historic monuments in Illinois narrated by G. W. Blanchard, district secretary of Organization for the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Added entertainment included a fashion show by representatives of the 1966 "Make It With Wool" contest, and organ interludes by Miss Joan Kestel. The style show was narrated by Mrs. Fred C. Francis of Wilmington.

Awards were presented to winners of a poster contest sponsored by Farm Bureau. Winners of these awards were - Gail Chesnut, Mokena; Jerry Harris, Elwood, and Julia Dawn Henline of Wilmington. Mrs. Lucille Hauert, chairman of the Women's Committee presented these awards.

The historical nature of the folk music and scenic beauty of Illinois program seemed to have special significance, according to Malone.

"This is the sesquicentennial year of Illinois" Malone said.

No more fitting program could have been found than the combination of historic folk songs by Stracke and the slides showing many of Illinois historic markers and scenic parks, Malone added.

The retirement from the board of Ed Berens and Lloyd Eichelberger will mean at least two new officers will be elected according to Robert Eaton.

Sewer Bill Suit Is Set Over To March

Trial of the law suit filed in Will County Circuit Court by the village of New Lenox against Martin J. Flanagan and the Standard Bank & Trust Co., as trustee of the multiple family dwellings on Cooper St., south of U. S. 30, to collect bills for sewage treatment, is now scheduled for March 13, Village Attorney William Penn informed village officials.

It had been slated for hearing Feb. 6 but was continued.

The village and Flanagan are in disagreement over these bills. Flanagan claims that an agreement had been entered into by the village under which the developers of the property were not to pay any sewer bills until they had been reimbursed for the cost of installing the mains that serve the development. The village board denies that any such agreement was made, expressed or implied, and want the bills paid.

Flanagan had earlier won a mandamus suit against the village to compel it to issue him a building permit for another multiple dwelling. The court tossed out his claim for damages because the permit had been denied.

There are motions now pending in court for setting the decision aside and for a new trial for the purpose of raising the damage issue.

They put in 1,182 man-hours on calls, besides 161 manhours on drills.

The department answered a total of 69 calls in the month but only one was a house fire.

The blizzard of Jan. 26-27 accounted for most of the calls. Firemen were called out to give first aid on 54 occasions, plus eight inhalator runs and six car fires.

In a story that appeared the week after the big storm it was said that firemen were unable to get out of the village with their ambulance to reach hospitals. Chief Granat said that was true as far as Thursday and early Friday were concerned but later in the day on the 27th ambulance crews managed to get thru but they had to make devious detours.

Orland Park was plowed out immediately. As in other area communities the people could get about the village but couldn't go anywhere else. It was erroneously stated that Orland Park did not own any snow plows. The village had a small blade for a couple of years but this year added a large, heavy blade to their equipment and have it attached to a large truck that is rented when necessary. Orland Park, like some other villages and townships, rent big, heavy equipment to augment village equipment. The village board received letters from Mr.

and Mrs. Richard Johnson, Frank Sidler, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert King, thanking firemen, policemen and village officials for the handling of difficulties arising from the blizzard and for the promptness with which village crews cleared and removed snow from the streets. Village board members also added their thanks and commended the workers.

The fire department gave shelter to 33 storm-stranded persons for three days.

Only a very few people actually enter your home but hundreds may pass it each month. Thus you, your home may unconsciously be judged on the basis of its landscaping or the effects that the landscaping give.

Even during these snowy days of winter your landscaping can serve to enhance the appearance. At this time evergreens serve as the basic element in the picture. However, all evergreens are not alike. The blue spruce or rare blue firs are most distinctive in the winter landscape. However, when placing them in your yard remember the song "Beyond the Blue Horizon." Placed at the rear of the lot the blue color will give the optical illusion of distance ... especially when contrasted with the snow.

Evergreens vary in shape too. Cone, upright, round and spreading shapes are general examples. Although upright or cone shaped evergreens are usually placed at corners, modern landscape architects feel that with most modern homes the best effect is obtained with rounded evergreens or other type shrubs at the corners. Some examples would be certain yews, junipers and arbovitae. The ultimate height should be two-thirds the height of the eaves of a single story home.

The entrance way can be framed to invite people to a door by the use of low growing or spreading shrubs. Their height should reach just the threshold into the door way.

Although the evergreens are important in the winter landscape, other elements are attractive too. I notice several hedges in our neighborhood that are quite commonplace in summer. Yet in winter their branch structure reveals all the expensive detail of decorative iron.

Trees that are attractive for leaf or flower in summer become attractive for their bark structure in winter. An excellent example of this is the sycamore and birch. Their bark cannot stretch so as the tree increases in diameter, irregular patches pop or shred off the trunk.

Natural shape becomes apparent at this time too. The twiggy horizontal branches of the hawthornes are beautifully outlined after a heavy snow fall. Each branch and twig becomes so covered with snow that the tree may appear to be in full bloom.

Color also has a place in the winter landscape. Rather than leaves, flowers or fruit, twigs give the color. One of the best examples is the redosier which thrives even in poorly drained locations. Its blood-red twigs are most attractive in the winter sun against the winter snow. The color is most brilliant on the newer shoots. Therefore, older canes are cut out of the shrub and new ones forced by a careful application of fertilizer. For a brilliant yellow twiggied shrub consider the yellow dog wood and for green twigs the unusual kerria shrub.

All Winter landscapes can be as inviting as a Christmas card. However, the memory is sometimes short when spring planting season arrives. So get out the color camera and take some pictures.

Elect Officers

The new officers of the Will - South Cook Soil and Water Conservation District board are: William Stelter, Tinley Park, chairman; Le Roy Deutsche, Crete, vice-chairman; George Archibald, New Lenox, secretary; Earl Keniston, Manhattan, treasurer; and Erwin Schmaedeke, Mokena, director. The board met Feb. 8 at their Joliet office.

The engineering report on the Spring Creek Lake Developing project has been returned from the Soil Conservation Service in Kankakee for consideration of local residents. Details will be handled by Loren Sass of Lockport, chairman.

The District will join with the Soil Conservation Flower Show Council in an exhibit at the World Flower and Garden Show at the amphitheatre in Chicago, March 11 - 19.

2 Losses Shatter Hope Of Knights For Cage Title

A full-court press and a fastbreak by the Homewood-Flossmoor cagers dealt a severe blow to Lincoln-Way's hopes for the South-west Suburban Conference basketball championship. The Vikings scored an 81-65 triumph over the Knights, which had previously handed them their only defeat in league play.

The win gives the Vikings 10 victories as against one loss in the conference, while Lincoln-Way dropped to 8-2. Then on Saturday night the Knights were dealt out of any chance to share the title when they lost to underrated Rich East, 64 to 57.

There are only a couple of games left for Flossmoor and one of them is against Sandburg, which has not been faring well at the hands of its conference rivals this season.

If the Vikings would contrive to lose their remaining starts and the Knights win theirs...

Lincoln-Way and Sandburg played Tuesday night to make up the game that was snowed out but because of the mechanical problems the results of that contest cannot appear in this issue.

The defeat by the Vikings was the 14th that Lincoln-Way has suffered on the Homewood - Flossmoor floor. The Knights would like to play the Vikings at Lincoln-Way or a neutral floor. That one at H-F is a jinx. Niems, of Homewood-Flossmoor took scoring honors with 20 points; Youngblood had 18; Kroc, 15, Schreiber, 14 and Cornell, 13.

Mike Seitzinger of Lincoln-Way had 15 points, and Pat McCabe, Bill Stanfill and Dean Warning had 10 each. Both teams shot better than .500 from the floor. H-F had 31 baskets and L-W 28. But on the free throws it was a different story. Lincoln-Way converted nine out of 13 while the Vikings dropped in 19 out of 32.

Twenty-five fouls were called against Lincoln-Way; 10 against Homewood-Flossmoor.

On Saturday night the visiting Rich East five capitalized on free throws, counting 28 out of 41 while the Knights converted but nine out of 18. The losers counted 24 baskets to 18 for the winners.

Rich and Lincoln-Way each scored 12 points in the first quarter and then Rich went ahead in the second period, 22 to 14 so at half-time the score was Rich 34 and Lincoln-Way 26.

That second frame doomed the Knights. They came back in the third quarter to nose out Rich 15 to 13 and in the final period Rich chalked up 17 points to Lincoln-Way's 16.

Seitzinger scored 19 points; Eden, 14; Ihde, 11; Fredin, 8; Kohlbacker, 3, and Pat McCabe and Stanfill, two each.

Delores Brandau, 34, Dies; Rites Feb. 15

Funeral services were held on Wednesday, Feb. 15 for Mrs. Delores Brandau, nee Rauch, age 34, late of 171st & 88th Av., Tinley Park.

Mrs. Brandau died Sunday, Feb. 12, at St. James Hospital, Chicago Heights, following a brief illness.

Born Nov. 28, 1932, she had lived all her life in Orland Township. She was a member of the Tinley Park Methodist Church.

Surviving are her husband, Ervin, two daughters, Margery Lynn, Sandra Lee; one son, Ronald Ervin, one brother, Marlin, and her father, August Rauch.

She was preceded in death by her mother Blanch, nee Young.

Removal was to the Schmaedeke Funeral Home, 10701 Harlem, Worth, to Tinley Park Methodist Church, where services were held on Wednesday, at 2 p.m. with the Rev. William Roberts officiating.

Interment was in Christ Lutheran Cemetery, Orland Township.

A window display showing achievements of the Kennedy School's boy scout troop was a source of favorable comment among Palos Heights shoppers last week.

The display, seen in the windows of Hillig's House of Color, 12345 Harlem, features an organization chart which shows some of the boys have advanced far up the scouting ladder; various handicraft items such as model cars built by the boys; and a collection of swimming equipment donated by the Sandburg Guard.

The troop's monthly trip to Sandburg's pool for swimming lessons is one of the top events for the boys. As Nancy Junkunc, Sandburg senior and member of the school life-guard organization, wrote in a recent issue of the school paper, the AQUILA:

"Thirty very special boys come to Sandburg for a swimming lesson every month. They are the boys of Joseph Kennedy School for the mentally retarded.

"The Guard strives through personal instruction and group games to teach the fundamentals of swimming and eliminate the boys' initial fear of water. This program was instituted by the Guard three years ago.

"At the beginning of the hour, each Guard is assigned to one boy. The two become well-acquainted after a while and much can be accomplished.

"The beginner boys remain in the shallow end. They are taught the basic stroke in much the same way as the Saturday morning children. The more advanced boys swim in the deeper water. Many use the diving board and are taught advanced strokes.

"After a short lesson, everyone gathers in small circles to play ball. After awhile, the groups break up and resume the lesson.

"Usually, near the end of the period, a contest is held. Sometimes the boys are given stars if they can swim a length of the pool. "These seem to make the boys more determined to learn," said senior Patti Morris.

"The Guard enjoys the program almost as much as the Kennedy boys. "It really is rewarding to teach these boys," Debbie Stuart said. "They seem to appreciate everything so much more."

Scoutmaster for the Kennedy boys is Fred M. Baier. Advisor to the Guard is Alan Gillberg, director of athletics at Sandburg.

There are 9 Big Reasons Why YOU Should VOTE FOR a Class I Junior College FEB 18th

1. You will actually save taxes over the years because of the greater State aid given to Class I Junior Colleges.
2. The 9 1/2¢ rate is among the lowest in the State because the tax base of our 3-county area is among the highest.
3. Our young people will have a fully-accredited 2-year State college program with fully transferable college credits.
4. The vocational program will provide 2 additional years of technical training tailored to local industrial and agricultural needs.
5. The adult educational program will enable people to pursue a wide variety of self-improvement courses.
6. Tuition costs will be reduced to $200 a year under the proposed plan.
7. A separate Junior College Board will be elected to direct the affairs of the Class I school.
8. We will retain 65 years of Junior College experience and tradition and keep $3 million of school expenditures within a 3-county area.
9. If we do not have a Class I school in this community, resident students may choose to go to other Class I schools nearby and these schools, under the law, can collect from our High School District the entire educational cost of these students, less State aid.
